How Hussman MA's Suck It Up

What's New in the Zoo?

Michael Gawlik publishes in Huffpost!

His article proves that Christmas never, truly does us the favor of dying. Also, the holiday is an invading force.

Giulia Heyward publishes in IndyWeek!

She tells the story of Gray Ellis, of allies, and ... of "awaiting popsicles"?

Alicia Carter receives the UNC Beckman Award!

Now, on to Alaska to document climate resilience among fisheries and beluga whales. Unless a mosquito carries her off in its forelegs. I'm not the pessimist, you're the pessimist.

Gray Player readies study of Millennial burnout!

It turns out, millennials work differently (when do they find the time, as they're ruining food, eating, and America?). Gray and PhD. Teresa Tackett want to know just how differently.

A Poem

Above sits a vision descending from calming steeple;
This blissful home on stilts over rolling water
Which wears the graceful touch of the potter,
This haven where I would see no other people.

When this hellish week sees fit to end,
In spring break's light my knee I'll bend.
Not to six o'clock waking, no, not to theses' will;
First and only to St. Walter and his twenty-five mil.

Our (Semi)-Weekly Walter

Lest we forget, our ardent supporter and financial mascot was once a handsome devil...

...made somehow more devilish by 50 years in Arkansas.

Student Blog Posts

We write weekly blog posts because of our [drive, ambition, CLASS, desperation, nihilism]. Don't rest on the laurels of my commentary; give us a read.

McGee Bosworth - "Is Green the New Black?"

Hong Kong. London. New York. Fashion designers. It's all very glamorous, but it's also sustainable and (most importantly) bearing that holy Hussman brand.

Ginny Horne - "The D-Word"

Ever wanted a "Survival Guide De-Classified" look at being a Southern political minority? If not, at least give Ginny a read to find out what the D-Word is (hint: it ain't quite "Dukakis").

Amari Pollard - "Bone and Marrow"

The words are heartfelt, the family insight is sometimes intimate, and ... I'm sorry, I just had to make jerk chicken and I don't know why.

Tyler Read - "Runaway Trollies"

No, Tyler's not in the cohort. But he writes about why it might be okay to eat humans, harvest organs, and punch Nazis. That's the wholesome content we need.

Hadley Green receives a Washington Post internship!

Clearly, her democracy doesn't die in darkness. In the mean time, make sure to ask Hadley about her newest interest: women's prison!

Fact Time? Fact Time.

"Succulent" comes from the Latin sucus, which means "sucus."

Example: "I sucus my mucus, then I puvus."

Amari Pollard nears one year as a podcaster!

The podcast, called "So-Called Oreos," will celebrate one year on ... May 5? That's not even soon for wishful thinkers. What the f***?

Kevin LaTorre publishes ... two poems?

Really? That's it?

Alright, then. Make sure to read them at The Blotter. Have a chuckle at this ephemeral output which receives no pay at all!

Are you doing something that'll turn our cohort as green as cacti?

Let me know (at kevinlаторre@me.com) and I'll spread the word!
